ABOUT TYRONE

Tyrone Welch has always been on a quest to be an agent for change and an inspiration to everyone he encounters. He is a proud graduate of Alabama State University, and has committed himself to the motto of his alma mater: "Where history is made."

Tyrone has over a decade of experience in information technology, but he is most passionate about making a contribution to leave his community better than it was when he arrived. He is the Founder and President of the Bold Kode Foundation, a non-profit organization that assists black youth with honing their skills to pursue careers in the disciplines of STEM (Science, Technology, Engineering, Mathematics). He serves as the Chapter Polemarch (President) for the Austin (TX) Alumni Chapter of Kappa Alpha Psi Fraternity, Inc. and is a member of Mount Olive Baptist Church, where he serves on the Fine Arts committee. He is the Black History Events Coordinator where he spearheads the Black Dream Keepers series: a four-week series of presentations that showcases African-American heroes and/or contributions to mankind.

Tyrone is also currently writing two books, both set for release in late 2024. The Pensacola, Florida native is an avid sports fan and the proud father of one princess, Taylor.

Perseverance, Uplift and You

This session will discuss how to overcome any obstacle and fully realize your potential.

"They Gon' Love Me for My Ambition"

Motivation is external, but ambition is internal. In this session, we will delve into how to tap into the power you already have within to help you achieve your goals.

Black in Corporate

How to defeat imposter syndrome and survivor's guilt as you ascend the corporate ladder.

The Value of an HBCU Experience

HBCUs help build boys into men, girls into women. Matriculating at an historically Black college or university is a transformational experience, and one that has been critical to my identity, and the identity of many other successful Black leaders in this country.
